

THE NEWS.

On Sunday last, the rebel General Forrest varied the religious exercises of the good people of Memphis by making a dash into the place at the head of a large body of Cavalry. He made a forced march upon the city, and immediately proceeded to Gen. Washburn's headquarters to pay his respects. That General, not caring to cultivate Forrest's acquaintance, was not at home, and he was not seen. He also called upon Buckland and Harburt but they had just stepped out. Our troops soon rallied and drove the rebels out of the city before they could plunder much. Each party lost near an hundred men in killed and wounded.

Our forces now occupy the Weldon Railroad within two miles of Petersburg, and have destroyed 35 miles of that road. The Danville road is to receive the attention of Warren next.

Hooker is said to have been assigned to an important command.

Another foolish rumor is afloat to the effect that the Government has sent peace commissioners to Richmond. The rumor is as baseless as the fabric of a dream.

Sheridan is said to be in the neighborhood of Harper's Ferry, making vigorous use of the spade. There is, also, an unfounded report that the rebels have again crossed the Potomac.

The fight for the possession of the Weldon Railroad cost us something over 1,000 men, mostly prisoners. Our forces held their ground, however, and inflicted severe punishment upon the rebels.

General Kilpatrick returned to General Sherman's headquarters, on Sunday, from a raid on the Macon railroad. He succeeded in destroying several miles of the track, locomotives, cars, &c., captured a battery and a number of prisoners.

Over two thousand rebels belonging to the Indiana Sons of Liberty were seized in New York Monday evening. These were part of the Duld purchase.

Adam Johnson's guerrilla gang has been used up. Johnson is wounded and a prisoner. Several other guerrilla bands have been similarly disposed of.

Up to the time of going to press, we have no information as to what is being done in the Congressional Convention at Watertown.

Letter From the Eighth Regiment.

ADAMSVILLE, WIS., AUGUST 11th 1864.
Elkhorn Gazette.—The new flags of the 8th Regiment have been baptized and are doing the ducking well. Yesterday the enemy made a dash at our picket post and captured several of our men, but not of our regiment. Gen. Mower got mad and started after them with his division of Cavalry and one division of Infantry, and attacked them in position at Hurricane Creek, two miles south of our camp, where the enemy had a fine position. Gen. Mower sent Hare's to attack them with Cavalry on the left flank, and Grierson on the right, while he pressed them in front with Artillery and Infantry. The rebel Infantry fled before we got near their works. We had one man killed by a shell from rebel batteries. Our loss was very small. We drove the rebels from their works in quick time, leaving the dead and wounded behind. They throw away many of their small arms in their flight, and we took several prisoners, among them an Adjutant General. The regiment never behaved better under heavy artillery fire.

We have 150 men present, and but one unfit for duty, he being wounded. The troops here are all very healthy. The weather is very warm, but we stand it quite well. I never felt better.

Capt. King is not quite well today. We have news through rebel sources that Mobile is taken. If that be so, we may not advance any further in this direction. The roads are in bad condition for trains and artillery. We have had heavy rains for several days past. Yesterday while advancing on the enemy, the regiment forced stream water deep. The mounted officers nearly all had to abandon horses on account of the mire in the swamps. I left my horse in charge of a soldier in the swamp and told him to get him out if he could. I found him all right during the night. We returned arriving late at midnight. We are in light marching order and not a tent in the army, from the commanding General down. But in all kinds of weather it is hard for new troops, but the old rats think it fun. But if we get plenty of recruits we will try and have tents for them. We have a fine camp here, two graveyards on one flank, a swamp on the other and teams corralled in the rear, and a regiment in front that don't keep things very clean around camp. I want to encourage my citizens in the North that will have to assist yet in this fight, you may think by the description of our camp that it is not a very pleasant one, but I will assure you we have had many worse ones and thought them very good. My best wishes to you all, hoping to see you down here soon.

Respectfully Yours,

W. B. BURTON, 8th W. V. I.

How, John Cowan, while attending his moving machine on his farm in Pennsylvania one day last week, met with quite a severe accident. His left foot being brought in contact with the knives of the machine was seriously cut.

On Sunday last, as four boys were playing on the prairie near Ococh, Iowa, they were all struck by lightning. Two of them recovered, but two were killed instantly.

The pods grow from a foot to eighteen inches in length, and they are esteemed a very good article for the table when used as a string bean or for the purposes of making soup. Their blossoms are a very pretty flower and quite ornamental. They are a curiosity even if they were not good as an esculent.

When the news of their success reached the city, the engine bell was vigorously rung, and the stars and stripes, underneath which was a broom, was suspended over the house. FROM GRANT'S ARMY.

New York, August 24.—A special dispatch to the Commercial dated Washington 24th, says advice to-day from the army of the Potomac state that Gen. Warren is missing.

We made a reconnaissance yesterday towards Petersburg and ascertained that the rebels had fallen back to their works at that place, thus leaving Weldon Railroad to its fate.

An expedition sent down the road yesterday pulled up rails and destroyed bridges to the extent of 35 miles.

Latterly—Our forces have advanced on the Weldon Railroad to within 2 miles of Petersburg without opposition. The rebels have retreated within their earthworks and no longer dispute the possession of the Weldon line.

The Danville road is naturally the next to receive Gen. Warren's respects. Indeed it is rumored this afternoon that a cavalry dash in that direction has already been made.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, August 24.—No engagement has occurred since Sunday. The enemy has fallen back as previously stated, to their lines two miles from Petersburg, and are erecting strong works, similar to those we encountered on our arrival here. The rebel work night and day, evidently expecting an attack.

Richmond papers acknowledge a heavy loss in officers and men on Sunday, but claim they took 3000 prisoners.

Our losses of the 5th corps are 17 officers, 132 men killed, and 7 officers and 784 men wounded, 90 officers and 5853 men missing. The 9th corps lost about 300, which makes the total loss 425

Congressman in the First District.
The Congressional Convention for the First District is called to meet at Racine, September 7th. The district is now represented by James S. Brown, of Milwaukee, a copperhead of the mildest type.

We observe that the Union papers of that district are already casting about for a suitable candidate, and discussing the chances of the different aspirants for the nomination. The Daily Life names O. H. Waldo and General James H. Paine as the most prominent of the candidates suggested thus far. The Life would be sniped with either, but gives a decided preference for Mr. Waldo. It discusses and urges his merits at considerable length. The Daily Wisconsin does not seem to recognize General Paine as a prominent candidate, but gives the names of Waldo and Mat. H. Carpenter as the two most likely to be foremost in the race for the honor of the nomination. That paper, also, gives preference to Mr. Waldo, although a great admirer of Carpenter and ever ready to advance his interests. The Sentinel, as yet, has said nothing, probably thinking that it is the business of the convention and not of the newspapers, to make nominations for Congress.

The country papers of the district have not yet declared their choice. The Elk-horn Independent, some time since, published an article favoring General Paine as its choice. Doubtless, the prize will be drawn by one of the gentlemen named above, any one of whom would make an excellent Representative and should either be chosen the district would not need to employ lobby agents to go to Washington to attend to its business interests.

But that district is uncomfortably close and the selection of a candidate will probably hinge upon availability. General Paine is an old line abolitionist and stands high with what is known in the political parlance of the day, as the radical wing of the party. He is an excellent off-hand debater, and is simply able and willing to meet any man on the stump the copperheads may put up. Mr. Waldo is one of the first lawyers in the State, and as a business man has no superior. The district would have reason to be proud of him if he could be elected.

Some of his enemies have endeavored to make a point against him by intimating that he was in league with certain old ladies of doubtful political virtue known as the Jenny Lind club, but every one who knows Mr. Waldo knows better.

Mr. Carpenter, we think, possesses more of the elements of popularity than any other man yet named for that position. A true Union man, an excellent lawyer and a splendid public speaker, there would not be a rag left to cover the hideous deformity of copperheadism by the time he had thoroughly canvassed the whole district. It would be rare sport to see Mat. backed by the Union forces of the First District, turned loose upon the traitors and rebel sympathizers of that region. They would hunt their holes on a double quick.

Our Union friends in that district seem to be alive to the importance of securing it from the hands of our political adversaries, and are no doubt ready to make such concession and sacrifices of personal feelings as necessary to unite every element of Union strength to insure harmony and victory. If they make a judicious nomination at Racine on the 7th of September, and work for their candidate as they ought to work, Mr. James S. Brown's Congressional career will end on the fourth of March next.

The Nashville Union of Saturday, 20th, says: "Whatever may be the number of Wheeler's cavalry, or their intentions, they have failed, so far, to seriously interrupt the communications with the front. The telegraph is working, and yesterday the headquarters of Gen. Sherman and the public may feel well assured that this accomplished chieftain will see that no detriment falls to his army from rebel operations in the rear. He will, we suspect, give Hood employment for all his men at Atlanta, and take good care that raiders like Wheeler, are 'taken in and done for.'"

The evidence of the contemplated rebel advance into Missouri multiplies daily. The New York Herald after Ben. Wood, says: "The New York Herald says: 'One of the Wall street banks cashed a check yesterday for $25,000, drawn at Montreal in favor of Ben. Wood. Montreal is a nest of rebel and British agents, who are trying to break up this country. Now did this check come from a rebel emissary or a British emissary? Is it to be used in supporting the Niles in buying up peace delegates to the Chicago Convention?'

A Richmond paper furnishes the following information for the detection of mining operations: "Drive an iron gun-road into the ground near where it is supposed a mine is being made, until it is firm in the ground. Take it between the teeth, and close the lips tight around the rod; close both ears with the forefingers; and listen. You can hear a great distance underground in this way."

A SENSIBLE VIEW.
The Duty of Loyal Friends of Freedom
---The Manifesto of Messrs. Wade and Davis.

[From the Anti-Slavery Standard, August 13.]
The question as to how the institutions of the nation are to be rearranged after the war shall be at an end is one which must, of necessity, cause much anxious reflection to all thinking and honest men, and it is one, that must, as necessarily, meet with different answers according to the temperament, the intelligence, and the standpoint of the different observers. It is no wonder that it excites the most eager controversies, and that men's minds are deeply moved, and diversely affected by the discussion. The copperhead wing of the rebels, encamped in the midst of every city and every village, have a steadfast hope that the war will have had no result, when it is over, besides the lives and the gold it has devoured. They trust that things will be as they were before, that the supremacy of slavery will be re-established, and they will revel again in the crumbs which will fall from the table of their masters. Thoughtful men, who have accepted this dreadful conflict as the bloody but inevitable purgation of the nation from its sins toward the slave, shudder at this prospect and feel around after some sure way of escape from it, if haply they may find it. Almost every one has some favorite scheme which would seem to provide for every emergency and guard against every danger. Unhappily, there is no unity of plan among men of unquestionable loyalty, which is synonymous with a settled determination to extirpate slavery, as to how the settlement is to be finally made which is to kill slavery, leaving freedom alive, so as to secure the right of self-government with the certainty that it will not be used to continue or to revive the fatal and guilty cause of all our woes. And the danger is that these discussions will lead to serious defections and schisms in the party of freedom, which will endanger its prevailing at the next election and perhaps result in the success of her deadliest enemy. For we presume that none of the bitterest opponents of the present Administration, however grounded their opposition in reason or conscience, would wish to see McClellan, or whoever may be the copperhead candidate, placed at the head of the nation. It would not be lying from ill will to have to those we know not of, but to such as we can very clearly discern to be the inevitable consequences of such a calamity.

One of the most pregnant symptoms of this danger is to be seen in the paper put forth by the Hon. Messrs. Wade and Winter Davis in bitter rebuke and condemnation of the President's proclamation giving his reasons for not signing the bill for "guaranteeing to certain States, whose Governments have been usurped, a republican form of government." We certainly shared in the general regret that that bill was not permitted to become a law. It seemed to us excellently well devised for the triple purpose it had in view: 1, to extirpate slavery forever in a way that could be open to no constitutional cavil; 2, to secure us from the otherwise inevitable disgrace, in the event of reconstruction, of the return to the national councils of re-hunged traitors, and 3, to save us from having the rebel debt saddled upon us in addition to our own, as a bribe to traitors to come back and govern us. We regret not much Messrs. Wade and Davis that this law has not been recorded on the statute book and made the key which is to solve the difficult enigma that awaits us. But while we commend Congress for having looked this question in the face, and provided the best settlement of it that they could devise, we must also remember that the President is a co-ordinate branch of the Government, and that he had the same constitutional right to withhold his consent from the bill, or to interpose his veto, as the Senate and House had to consent to it. If deemed, for any reasons seeming sufficient to him, that it ought not to become a law, it was as much his duty to hinder its becoming such, as it was that of Messrs. Wade and Davis to secure its passage, holding the opinions that they did on the matter. Whether he was wise and judicious in his decision is a question open to all men's consideration and judgment, but his constitutional right and duty in the premises is as clear as the right and duty of the Senate and the House. And here we would interpose the criticism, that the House and Senate are thus far to blame for their own disappointment, inasmuch as they left the most important measure to the very end of the session so as to leave the President no opportunity to return the bill with his objections and themselves none of passing it over his head. Or if the copperhead minority in the House were too strong to make this likely, some modification might have been devised which would have obliterated the President's objections, and left this most delicate matter in a better practical shape than it is now in. Such procrastination may prove the thief not only of time, but of futurity as well.

But while we use our right of private judgment in thinking Mr. Lincoln wrong in standing in the way of so wholesome a measure, we can see some of the difficulties, which he had provided for himself, indeed, but which he could not overlook, which moved him to the step. By his amnesty Proclamation he had pledged himself to the portions of the rebel States within reach of his protection, that they might organize themselves for self-government, under certain conditions, whenever one-tenth of the population at the time of the last election, if our memory is not at fault, were ready to consent to them. Now, two States, Louisiana and Arkansas, have assented to his terms, and entered into some sort of political autonomy. He, still holding, undoubtedly, that his policy was wise and his action constitutional, under the temporary Dictatorship arising out of military necessity, it was hardly to be expected that he should, without ceremony, unmake those creatures of his power by signing their death warrant in the bill for re-establishing republican governments. We do not think that his policy was wise or his action constitutional in thus putting the control of the rebel States, without the consent of Congress, or with it, into the hands of so small a fraction of their population, in the exercise of his despotic authority, as Commander-in-Chief. That authority is supreme for the purpose of putting down the rebellion, but not for providing for the political reconstruction which is to follow its suppression, and which can have no effectual prevalence until it has been suppressed. But though this is our opinion, a opinion shared, we imagine, by a large proportion of our friends, it is not his. And his decision was to be governed not by our opinion, nor by that of Congress, nor yet of the Northern public, but by his own sense of right and duty. We believe that his motives in the Amnesty Proclamation were sincere and honest, however mistaken they may have been, and however unfortunate their result. He thought thus to form a nucleus around which the loyalty which it was fondly dreamed existed beyond the picket lines would gather and destroy the predominant treason by a process of elimination. If the experiment has had any success, it has been in showing that no such loyal feeling exists, and that an emancipationist by force of arms is only a disguised slaveholder, eagerly watching his opportunity to throw off his mask and be himself again. But having committed himself to these men, and still holding that he should look upon it as a breach of faith toward them to undo that he had done by stroke of the pen at the bottom of this bill. The impression that the President has rejected this bill for the purpose of "holding" the electoral votes of these States at the dictation of his personal ambition," is one that will have small effect except in making more intense the hatred which his opponents already feel. It is too clearly the utterance of political or personal passion to affect impartial minds. Indeed, the whole paper is tinged by a violence of language and bitterness of spirit which must prevent the effect on the public mind which it was meant to have, and which a calmer judicial statement might have produced.

But, although we cannot refrain from speculating as to what is to come after the rebellion is suppressed, we must all remember that that important preliminary is not yet obtained. There may be no harm in discussing what we shall put on the bear's skin to, when we shall have killed the beast, provided it does not divert us from vigorously following up the chase. There is a nearer duty than indulging in these schemes for the future. And that is the one that lies immediately before us in the present. And that duty divides itself into two branches, 1, to beat the rebels in the field, and 2, to beat the copperheads at the polls. If we do not do both of these things we shall have no material to make our reconstruction out of. Should Lee be able to drive Grant from before Richmond, and should Sherman fail before Atlanta, neither of which is possible if we do our duty—the end of the war will have begun, but it will be the end for which we have been fighting. It will be won by arms in spite of a republican success, in such case, which will be gained by diplomacy in case of a copperhead victory. We do not believe that any terms that Vallandigham and the Woods could devise would win the rebels back to the Union and the Democratic party. We have too good an opinion of them, yet, to believe that. The heart's desire of the copperheads is, of course, to govern the country forever by the help of the slaveholders, and there is no business that they will not stoop to for the end. But the slaveholders are to wise in their generation and their passions are too fiercely stirred to yield to the charming of such charmers. They will insist on recognition, should they exist in force until a copperhead President comes into power. And recognition they will be sure to have at his hands. What must take precedence of all plans of reconstruction, then, is the furnishing the nation with men and with money—by sending to the field the half million soldiers called for, and by putting our money, if we have any, into the public funds. If this be done, the heaviest battalions and the heaviest purse coming to the help of the right, it will prevail mightily. Should we fail in this duty, or performing it, if we permit an ally of the rebels to gain the leadership of the nation, all our schemes of reconstruction will be but such stuff as dreams are made of—for there will be nothing left for us to reconstruct.

A Copperhead Lie Nailed.

The Chicago Tribune prints the following communication from the editor of the Nord Stern, a German paper published at La Crosse. The communication was addressed to the Chicago Times, but that paper refused to take back its slanderous lies upon the Germans of Wisconsin:

La Crosse, Aug. 24, 1864.

Editor Chicago Times:

Sir:—In your issue of the 1st you publish in a so-called special dispatch from this place the following:

"There is no doubt that a party of Germans are making preparations to resist the draft. They are making huts and cellars on one of the islands above here, and have agreed not to go to war till taken as prisoners, if drafted."

No doubt you or your correspondent took this notice from the La Crosse Democrat of July 27th, in which the editor of that sheet, Mr. M. Pomeroy, in an editorial notice said about the same thing of a party of "Germans" in a country north of La Crosse, who are making preparations to resist the coming draft.

Now, sir, in the name of the Germans here, I most emphatically protest against these wicked insinuations, as there is not an iota of truth in it, and I consider it the most scurrilous, the meanest and most contemptible attack, not only upon the loyalty but upon the intellect and good common sense of the German citizens here, to give publicity to such villainous lies about them. It is certainly altogether intended to create a wrong impression outside of La Crosse, of public sentiments around here, to encourage treason and treasonable designs elsewhere, and as the author was perhaps afraid to get rebuked too quick if he should publish these lies about the citizens in general, he has resorted to the still meaner act of calumniating certain citizens, which he thought would not soon get aware of his doings.

Mr. Pomeroy, who for the sake of gaining a little notoriety, originates and manufactures these malicious lies, regarded here by everybody as a public clown, and I would not have taken the trouble to answer the article mentioned, if it had not been republished by your paper. Believe me, the Germans here and elsewhere are one and all law-abiding citizens, although some of them might not look upon all the congressional laws as the embodiment of wisdom and right. But not one can be found who intends to follow the councils of such native American fools, as the councilor of your dispatch spoken of is one.

I hope you will be kind enough to give this protest a place in your paper, and by doing so you will oblige,

Yours truly,

JOHN ULRICH,

Editor of the Nord Stern.

WYNKOOP'S ICELAND PECTORAL.
Diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Pulmonary Organs are ever prevalent, hazardous and dangerous. It is used with the most astonishing results in all cases of Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria or Putrid Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Coughs, Colds, Nervous Irritability, &c.
The Rev. J. J. Porraz certifies: "I have used Dr. Wynkoop's Pectoral for several years, myself and in my family, for severe pulmonary complaints, and have recommended it to many others, and have never seen its equal." Rev. J. J. Porraz, Brookfield, N. Y.
Hundreds and thousands of important testimonials could be produced, showing its remarkable cures and that it never fails.
It is composed of pure Iceland Moss, Balm of Gilead, Peruvian Balsam, Eucalyptus, Conifer, Balm of Peppermint, and other invaluable expectorant and tonic ingredients. DIARRHEA AND DYSENTERY.
We have examined a great number of letters from some of the most prominent citizens of Cincinnati and Covington, etc., speaking in the highest terms of Dr. Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture for the cure of diarrhea and dysentery. The letters are too long to publish. Mr. Woods, of Covington, says he was pronounced incurable by the best doctors in Cincinnati, and one bottle of Dr. Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture effected a permanent cure after suffering for months with the worst form of diarrhea and dysentery.
Another says he was discharged from the United States service after suffering in the hospital for eight months as incurable, and as a last resource tried Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture. He got well directly and has now entered the army again in good health. One man writes he has cured seven or eight very bad cases of diarrhea and dysentery in the barracks he was in with one bottle of this valuable medicine. To fact we could fill half our paper with similar letters from these letters. Why does not our government secure this valuable preparation? Our army ought to be supplied with it. It is not a short time since one of our men lay in a very low condition at one of our Cincinnati Hospitals, his wife was sent for. The doctors considered his case as hopeless case. She, however, gave him Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture, and in three weeks he was able to return home with his wife to New Richmond, O. All these cases right at home speak for themselves. We hope all the soldiers will put a bottle of it in their knapsacks. It may save them or some of their comrades. It is for sale by Druggists at 65 cents per bottle.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 25, 1894.

The "Crisis" Bro.-The Beldere Standard has the following, which may be well worth examination: "A gentleman informs us that he has a piece of wheat, all of which, except about half an acre, is full of grass. Where the grass is there are no bugs, while on the clear spots they literally swarm, and this calls to mind the theory of Mr. J. D. Tripp, who gave the result of observations on this subject in an article which we published two or three years ago. His idea, as we understand, is that this vermin deposits its eggs in the ground, which do not hatch until quite warm weather, and that it is possible to delay this hatching for two or three weeks, by sowing clover seed with the wheat. The clover shades the ground and does not injure the growth of the wheat. The sun's rays do not penetrate, and the eggs are delayed till the wheat gets out of the way. This is Mr. T's idea, which we presume he has never patented, and all are at liberty to try it who wish. The "bug" has made up his mind to stay with us, at all events, and there is no help for it except to stop raising grain, as we can see.

and that place is

where you can save fifty cents to one dollar on a Hat. You can save from one dollar to one dollar and a half on a pair of Pants. You can save from two dollars to six dollars on a Coat. You can save from five to ten dollars on a Suit of Clothes. In addition to these great savings you will procure goods of

FARMERS,
Don't pay Twelve Shillings for a Hat
at some of the small concerns round town, when you can purchase the same at our store for one dollar.

Don't pay $4 for a Linen Coat, when you can get the same quality at M. O. Smith & Co.'s for $2.

Don't pay from $20 to $25 for a Black Dress Coat, when you can purchase precisely the same quality at M. O. Smith & Co.'s for from $12 to $15.

Don't pay from $25 to $30 for a Suit of Clothes, when you can purchase the same, only a little better, at M. O. Smith & Co., at from $20 to $25.

Don't go and pay $10 for a Trunk, when you can buy the same at our store for $6. Now, Farmers of Rock County,

THIS IS NO BLOWING,
but the real truth, and after you have looked into every concern in town,

GIVE US A CALL!
We will convince you that the above are facts. We shall always cheerfully exhibit our goods, and any one favoring us with a call may feel assured that though he might fail to purchase he will not be mislead. 550 Main St.
